Art Unit: 1755

Applicant is advised that should claim 64 be found allowable, claim 87 will be objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate thereof. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k).

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 63 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The formulae in claim 63 containing variables including series of boxes render the meaning of the claim indefinite. The boxes recited are of varying width and those in the formulae do not correspond to the following definitions reciting boxes that even if of the same number are of different varying widths. Further, applicant is strongly urged to employ different variables in order to ensure any patent issuing from this application is printed properly.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 45, 46, 47 and 85 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent 5071833.

Art Unit: 1755

The reference teaches a precursor composition for forming yttrium barium copper oxide superconductors comprising yttrium acetate, barium trifluoroacetate and copper propionate. See column 9, line 7 through column 15, line 2; and examples I-IV.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 48, 49, 50, 59-65 and 87 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being ^{unpatentable} unpatentable over US Patent 5071833 as applied above, and further in view of US Patent 5304533.

The difference between US 5071833 and the instant claims is the addition of a Lewis Base such as an amine or ammonia to the composition. US 5304533 teaches that a base such as an amine or ammonia (See claim 6) may be added to metallorganic precursor compositions for forming yttrium barium copper oxide superconductors in order to promote hydrolysis. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to add a base, such as ammonia, to the composition of 5071833 because the prior art teaches hydrolysis would be promoted.

Claims 45 and 48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent 5304533.

The reference teaches precursor compositions comprising a rare earth metal salt, an alkaline earth metal salt, copper carboxylate and a base such as an amine or ammonia. See the claims.

Art Unit: 1755

Claims 59-62 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent 4956340.

The reference teaches a precursor composition comprising a rare earth metal salt, an alkaline earth metal salt, a transition metal salt such as copper propionate and a base such as an amine or ammonia.
